Lone Worker Policy

Review Dates:

Original Issue	9 th April 2014
Board Approved	30 th May 2018

1 INTRODUCTION

- 1.1 Working alone is not in itself against the law and it will often be safe to do so. However, the law requires employers to consider carefully, and then deal with, any health and safety risks for people working alone.
- 1.2 Employers are responsible for the health, safety and welfare at work of all their workers. They also have responsibility for the health and safety of any contractors or self-employed people doing work for them.
- 1.3 These responsibilities cannot be transferred to any other person, including those people who work alone.
- 1.4 Workers have responsibilities to take reasonable care of themselves and other people affected by their work activities and to co-operate with their employers in meeting their legal obligations.

2 REGULATIONS

- 2.1 The duties placed on employers and employees by the Health and Safety at Work etc Act 1974 and the Management of Health and Safety at Work Regulations 1999 are still applicable to lone workers. Employers have a requirement to identify the hazards presented by the work, the risks involved and the introduction of remedial measures to avoid or reduce the risk.
- 2.2 In accordance with the regulations mentioned above, Risk Assessments will be carried out by a competent person to identify the possible hazards before working alone, for example working below overhead cables, working adjacent to water, working with electricity, working in the open. The risk assessment will take into account foreseeable emergencies such as fire, equipment failure, ice, illness and accidents, as well as more job specific factors.
- 2.3 Persons will only be required to work alone if they are considered fit, healthy and competent to deal with the foreseeable risk and the precautions required for the job.
- 2.4 Management will maintain regular communication with the lone worker. In addition, the employee has the responsibility to keep in regular contact with their supervisor and to not take unnecessary risks in order to complete a job alone, this will be detailed within the risk assessment.
